

Health and safety competence seminar

Tees Branch networking event

20 December 2010

Centuria Building (No.56 on the enclosed campus map)

Teesside University

08.45–12.30

This seminar on health and safety competence will provide information about how competence is currently assessed by some industry bodies and how IOSH has been involved in the development of the Occupational Safety Consultants Register.

Other speakers will outline what is currently used to satisfy the competence requirements given under specific regulations or by client and contractor arrangements.

The seminar will begin at 09.10, with registration and coffee/tea available from 08.45. The closing address will be given by Steve Granger, IOSH President. The seminar concludes at 12.30 with a buffet lunch and an opportunity to network with other practitioners and the presenters.

The seminar will be held in the small lecture theatre in the Centuria Building at Teesside University (Building 56 on the enclosed campus map). Free parking is available in the Students Union' car park (P22 on the map) at the rear of the Students' Union Building, which is accessed from Southfield Road. Additional parking is available in the Middletown car park (P23 on the map), which you can get to from Woodlands Road. Both car parks are less than 2 minutes walk from the Centuria Building.

The Tees Branch Executive Committee looks forward to seeing you there. If you need more information, please contact one of the following:
