Building a healthier workforce for the future

Joint networking event with the London Metropolitan Branch, the Construction Group and the Health and Social Care Group
12 October 2015
Millwall Football Club, The Den, Zampa Road, London, SE16 3LN
08.00–16.00

This joint networking seminar will give delegates a broad understanding of the health risks involved in construction activities and the often simple steps that can be taken to eliminate or control them.

These risk management solutions will be presented by knowledgeable speakers with experience in these topics, and the event will include a selection of workshops and exhibitors.

Construction activities, even on a small scale, present a number of risks to those carrying out the work, as well as challenges to those commissioning, supporting or managing that work. It has also been identified that when construction workers are harmed at work, there are often associated health consequences.

This seminar will present the latest insights and information relating to the management of these risks.

What’s in it for you?
Delegates will:
- gain understanding of how the CDM framework can be used to create good project outcomes
- understand how to apply any learning outcomes from the day’s presentations and activities in their own role
- learn how to promote a positive safety and health culture and encourage a positive outlook on prevention during construction projects
- gain understanding of the benefits of effective safety and health management.

Who should attend?
- anyone with the responsibility for, or an interest in, occupational safety and health
- all employees looking to promote a positive safety and health culture
- those responsible for commissioning and/or managing construction work, as broadly defined
- anyone undertaking construction work.
